STATISTICAL REPORTS.

The Comptroller of Currency Makes His Annual Report.

His Ideas on Circulation Based on Silver Dollars.

Interesting Figures on the Nation's Exports and Imports.

The Comptroller's Report.

WASHINGTON, November 26. The annual report of the comptroller of the currency shows that during the year ended November 1st, '84, 191 banks have been organized with an aggregate capital of $7,042,230. Circulating notes have been issued to these new associations amounting to $3,660,230. Since the establishment of the national banking system, February 25, '63, there have been organized 3,261 national banks. The total number in existence November 1st, '84, was 2,071. Eleven banks have failed and been placed in the hands of receivers during the year. The different items of resources and liabilities as tabulated indicate that the business of national banks during the past eleven years has generally increased. The items of U. S. bonds and circulation thereon have decreased during the past two years. In concluding this subject the comptroller wishes to have it distinctly understood that he is not in favor of any measure which will cause inflation. He is of the opinion that the present aggregate paper circulation, made up of legal tender and national bank notes and gold and silver certificates, is ample for all needs of business. Whatever course may be deemed expedient by congress in regard to the funding or future payment of the public debt, it is perfectly safe and will afford great benefit to the public to permit an issue by national banks of a circulation to the extent of 100 per cent of the par value of bonds deposited instead of 90 per cent. It is further submitted that the profit on the circulation may be increased to a point which will induce banks to keep up their circulation to the maximum and stop contraction of their circulation, which is now occurring, by repealing the law taxing such circulation at the rate of one-half of one per cent semi-annually, which without appropriate legislation is evident will seriously embarrass the business of the country, and that if this contraction is permitted to go on it may result in the entire discontinuance of the issue of notes by national banks. The comptroller believes that this form of currency which can be increased or diminished in accordance with national laws which control business should be continued in preference to any other now permitted by law.

In regard to circulation based on silver the comptroller says: The people of the United States now hold a popular circulation based upon silver dollars in amount equal to more than one-third the national bank circulation. If it is for the best interests of the United States to issue circulation based upon silver, the comptroller believes the circulation should be issued upon coin or bullion which contains a sufficient number of grains of silver to have an intrinsic value equal in the markets of the world to its nominal value. Some writers have suggested that the circulating medium might be based upon bullion, both gold and silver, and the comptroller is of the opinion that under certain restrictions and regulations it would be far more correct in principle to issue silver certificates based upon deposit of silver bullion, to be valued in the exact proportion of silver to gold, than to continue to issue certificates under the present law. If this were done, silver bars might be stamped at their market value and held in the treasury for redemption, certificates on which would call an amount of silver equal in value to their nominal or face value expressed in gold. The bullion represented by certificates should be periodically valued at its market price in gold, and a certain proportionate amount of silver so held might perhaps be coined to provide means for redemption certificates, if redemption was desired for business purposes. The comptroller believes that the use of silver as money in this manner and its periodical valuation would have more influence in appreciating the market value of silver among the nations of the world than the present arbitrary coinage of 412½ grains of silver as a dollar. The issue of currency, based upon silver should not, however, be unlimited, and the present laws making the purchase and coinage of a fixed amount of silver bullion mandatory are very pernicious in their effect, as the unlimited and continued issuance of full legal tender silver coin and certificates based thereon of intrinsic value less than their face has already caused the hoarding of gold, and will eventually drive it from the channels of trade, thereby causing practical suspension of gold payment. There are many indications of this, notably uneasiness in financial circles in June and July last, caused by the reserve of gold in the treasury falling so near to the point at which under the law the issuance of gold certificates ceases. It is also to be observed that during the present year national banks throughout the country have increased their holdings of gold, including certificates, in the sum of $19,653,610. The comptroller concludes the report with a discussion of the subject of bank examinations and consideration of the financial troubles of May, 1884.

Exports and Imports.

WASHINGTON, November 26.—The chief of the bureau of statistics has prepared a statement of imports and exports of the United States during the first four months of the current fiscal year. The excess of value of exports over imports of merchandise for the four months ended October 31st was $25,892,619; ten months ended the same, $30,055,454; twelve months ended the same $91,583,688. Value of gold and silver coin and bullion imported into and exported from the United States during the first four months of the present fiscal year was as follows: July exports of gold $150,100; silver $2,860,658; imports of gold $2,283,103; silver $1,205,018; excess of imports, $68,857. August exports—Gold $175,019, silver $2,490,155; imports of gold, $2,758,300, silver, $1,248,157; excess of imports $1,331,683. September exports—gold, $77,300, silver, $3,330,042; imports of gold $1,477,672; silver $1,004,415; excess of exports $925,275. October exports—gold $193,533, silver $2,573,652; imports—gold $2,428,702; silver $1,042,953; excess of imports $1,606,470.

Naval Appropriations.

WASHINGTON, November 26.—Representatives Randall and Long of the sub-committee of the house committee on appropriations having in charge the naval appropriation bill, had a conference with Secretary Chandler to-day in reference to the appropriation for the navy for the last six months of the present fiscal year. The sub-committee favored continuation of last year's appropriation bill for that branch of the service, but it is understood Secretary Chandler expressed himself in favor of some senate committee amendments of last session in respect to which conference committees were unable to agree. Secretary Chandler will give his views to the full committee Monday.

Denver's War on Gamblers.

DENVER, November 26.—John Babb, George Schlier, Jasper Sears, Robert Garrison, Fred K. Eastman and Andrew Connell, against whom indictments had been found by the grand jury for renting rooms to be used for gambling purposes, were arraigned to-day in the district court and placed under $500 bond each to appear in the criminal court. David Terrill, W. A. Cates and William Thompkins plead guilty to the charge of gambling and keeping gambling houses and were fined $150 each. Isaac Smith and Jerry Davis for keeping a gambling house were held to appeal besore the criminal court in the sum of $500.

Three Times Convicted.

DENVER, November 26.—A Pueblo special to the News says: For the third time a jury this evening brought in a verdict for murder in the first degree against a Mexican by the name of Miguel Garcia, who is alleged to have killed, on April 15th, 1883, at West Las Animas, an old man named Dennis Wilkes, and of whom Garcia was an employee. On the first conviction a new trial was granted on a technicality in the records. The second verdict was set aside by the court for alleged want of sufficient evidence to justify it. At this trial the evidence is said to have been stronger than before and much curiosity is felt as to the probable action of the court.

A Santa Fe Failure.

DENVER, November 26.—A Santa Fe special to the Tribune-Republican says: Walter V. Hoyt, bookseller and stationer made an assignment to-day. Liabilities about $3,000; assets $3,000. The principal creditors are the St. Louis News company, Western News company, American News, Lippincott & Company, Appleton & Company, Scribner & Sons, Dennison Manufacturing company.

Libel Suit Compromised.

DENVER, November 26. The libel suit of Sheriff Graham against Rev. Dr. Hays was dismissed this afternoon, it being represented to the court that a compromise had been effected. The terms of the compromise have not yet been given to the public.

The French Position.

PARIS, November 26.—In the deputies to-day during a debate on the Tonquin credit bill Prime Minister Ferry defended the position of France in Tonquin, and declared that if China persisted in refusing to pay the indemnity demanded then the present provisional occupation of the island of Formosa by France will become permanent. He stated that English mediation had been asked by China and accepted by France; that the extravagant demands made by the Chinese should be answered by the chambers voting additional credit for prosecution of the Tonquin expedition next spring. [Loud cheering.]

Oklahoma Invasion.

EMPORIA, Kan., November 26.—The report of the formation of another company to invade Oklahoma, with headquarters at Emporia, is without foundation as far as it relates to Emporia, but it is undoubtedly true that a number of persons at this place belonging to the colony have gone to Hunnewell on the southern line of the state to join with others in another attempt to make a permanent settlement in Oklahoma, and it is understood a united movement will be made for that country about the 1st of December.

Robbed by Masked Men.

PITTSBURG, November 26. A Rochester, Pa., special says: Six masked men with drawn revolvers entered the residence of George Young and Levi Wessman near Beaver to-day and after terrifying the occupants bound and gagged both men and several ladies present, then made off with $600 and a large lot of jewelry and silverware.

PRESS ELECTION WORK.

Associated Press Representatives Make an Investigation.

Coming to the Conclusion that the Report was Unbiased.

Their Explanation of Apparent Conflict in Returns.

Associated Press Work.

NEW YORK, November 26.—A meeting of the joint executive committee of the New York Associated Press and the Western Associated Press was called in New York to investigate the published charges of partisanship of their dispatches during the campaign and their collection of election returns. It was attended by the members as follows: Charles A. Dana of the New York Sun, chairman; Whitelaw Reid of the Tribune, secretary; James Gordon Bennett of the New York Herald, represented by Dr. G. W. Hosmer, Richard Smith of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, W. N. Holdeman of the Louisville Courier-Journal. After a thorough investigation of the work including circulars of instruction, correspondence with agents by letter and telegraph correspondence with candidates, complaints from both democratic and republican sources, dispatches sent on, returns received by telegraph and the originals filed by the sender in the several telegraph offices, Messrs. W. N. Holdeman and Richard Smith were appointed a sub-committee to summarize the conclusions reached by the members. They presented the following report, which was unanimously adopted, and the chairman and secretary of the joint executive committee were instructed to sign the same and transmit it to members and clients of the two associations:

To the Members and Clients of the Associated Press.

The joint executive committee did not deem it advisable during a sharply-contested campaign to take public notice of the misrepresentations and unwarranted criticisms published against the associated press, as during such seasons of excitement men are moved by passion rather than by reason. Now that the party contest is closed the committee deem it their duty to make public the following statement: A meeting of the committee was called for the 25th inst., to which David M. Stone, Esq., president of the New York Associated press and Hon. Jos. Pulitzer of the executive committee, were invited. The latter was unfortunately out of the city but Mr. Stone appeared and gave the committee the benefit of his counsel and experience. A careful review of the work done and of the official records warrant this statement: That the high character and non-partisan fairness that have given the associated press its hold upon public confidence in the past, have been firmly maintained, and that no improper influence, political or otherwise, has been permitted to enter into the management. The work, strictly confined within the limits prescribed by the rules which experience has proved to be safe and just to all parties, has been larger than in any previous campaign. This was due to a greater number of party divisions and to the demand of the press for a fuller service. The state conventions, nearly a hundred in number, and the national conventions of all the political organizations were reported with a thoroughness and rapidity surpassing anything ever before attempted. The subsequent official action of the party committees, the letters, addresses and movements of the candidates were carefully provided for under instruction similar in language and spirit. It has never been considered as within the legitimate functions of this non-partisan association to report ordinary campaign meetings, or to transmit the scandals that spring up during such heated periods. All such have been rigorously excluded from associated press reports. The charge that election returns in the state of New York were withheld is disproved by the fact that out of a total of 1,009 wards and towns in the state the associated press received on election night returns from 630, whereas in 1876 returns were received from only 354, and in 1880 from only 293. The extent, rapidity and substantial accuracy of this service were never equalled before in this state, the total vote of which in 1884 reached the enormous number of 1,167,003, so nearly divided between the two great parties as to leave the victor only about 1,100 of a plurality. This investigation shows that while there were some serious errors in the telegraphing of our bulletins, especially from remote points, due in part to their being transmitted on different lines of telegraph, and while these errors in the main diminished the apparent strength of Cleveland, there was but one error of importance in the office of the associated press. This was in a bulletin issued on November 6th, two days after the election, known as bulletin "No. 14." In making this up one of the mathematicians employed in the absence of full returns from districts, instead of continuing to estimate percentage of democratic gains as had been done before, he undertook to estimate the actual pluralities, and by this process figured out a plurality of 473 for Mr. Blaine. The sub agent in charge of the office sent this out without sufficient scrutiny, but it was corrected as soon as its inaccuracy was positively ascertained. In regard to this error the committee find no evidence of any intentional wrongdoing on the part of the sub agent. From first to last there was no effort to control or affect the returns by any member of the committee, nor any interference of any kind, and the general instructions under which the work was done were strictly fair, non-partisan and more thorough and minute than ever before.

[Signed] CHARLES A. DANA,
WHITELAW REID, Secretary.

School for Christian Workers.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., November 26.—Preliminary measures for the incorporation of a school for Christian workers were taken in this city by prominent men of it is city, New York and Boston interested in the enterprise. The school will be opened January 1st under the presidency of Rev. D. A. Reed of this city, assisted by an efficient corps of teachers. Present arrangements reduce the expense to students to the mere cost of board, books, etc. The object is to train in a two years' course of study, young of Christian character, who wish to fit themselves for Sunday school superintendents, secretaries of Young Men's Christian Associations, pastors, lay assistants, Bible colporteurs and readers and for lay home mission work. The work has the approval of Mr. Moody, Pentecost, Sayford and other prominent gospel workers, who say there is a positive demand at living wages for a large number of young men trained to this service.

The Markets.

NEW YORK, November 26.—Wool dull; barely steady; unchanged.

Money 1½ to 1¾, closing 1 to 1½; prime paper 4½ to 6; sterling exchange, weaker 4.81, demand 4.85; governments strong and higher; state bonds, quiet; railways strong. The upward movement in prices at the stock exchange made further progress to day and the market was more active than for some time past. At the opening there was an advance of ¼ to 1 per cent, Jersey Central leading. Grangers, Vanderbilts and Lackawanna were also prominent in the rise. At 11 a. m. room traders attacked U. P., the stock being forced down to 49¾, and this brought about a reaction. Towards 1 p. m. shorts in Oregon Transcontinental and Missouri Pacific preferred began to cover, and this brought about a strong buying movement in the remainder of the list. It was reported from Chicago that a basis of settlement of the railroad war had been reached, and this stimulated buying. The improvement in prices ranged from ½ to 5¾. The market closed strong near the highest prices of the day. As compared with last night's closing prices are ¼ to 3¾ per cent higher, except for Union Pacific and Kansas & Texas, which were a fraction over. Transactions 356,000 shares.

Patti Honored in New York.

NEW YORK, November 26. All young men of New York of 25 years of age rose to-night to honor Patti, she linking the present and the past, and it seemed a rivalry whether the sons or fathers should be louder in recognizing the advent of Patti 25 years ago. No one in society when Patti began and still living was missing to-night and nobody who belongs to society since or now was absent. The opera selected for the night was "Martha," Patti appearing in the title role. Schalchi on this "Silver day" was the Nancy. After the applause at the theatre and the performance were over the police and people united in escorting their own prima donna to the Windsor hotel. There was great rejoicing along the route and at the hotel. The flowers and other tributes of remembrance and recognition were very numerous.

Congressmen Gathering.

WASHINGTON, November 26.—About 15 senators and 20 representatives have returned to the city. Most of the others are expected by Saturday night. It is the opinion of number of those who have returned that a majority of the members of congress will visit the exposition at New Orleans. They are in doubt however as to whether both houses will take an early adjournment for the purpose of making the visit.

The young lady was killed instantly and the man died in a short time.

CHICAGO, November 26.—At the Leman-Brand inquiry, after hearing evidence, including that of Hon. E. B. Washburne and other well-known citizens, the jury this evening adjourned till Monday. Local papers will publish a statement to morrow to the effect that there is good authority for the assertion that the jury before adjourning found indictments against the three judges and two clerks of election in the Second precinct of the Eighteenth ward of changing of and making fraudulent returns to the county clerk, and instructed the United States district attorney to draw up papers.

IN SPRECKELS' DEFENSE.

A Version of the De Young Shooting Affair at San Francisco.

From the San Francisco Semi-Weekly Herald of Trade which comes among our exchanges we clip the following as to the De Young shooting affair which has been so thoroughly circulated throughout the country:

The shooting and seriously wounding on Wednesday evening of M. H. De Young, surviving owner of the San Francisco Chronicle, by Adolph B. Spreckels, of the firm of J. D. Spreckels & Bros., and second son of Col. Claus Spreckels, caused an excitement only less than that on the occasion of the wounding of ex-Mayor Kalloch by the late Charles De Young, or the subsequent killing of Mr. De Young by young Kalloch. The cause of this unfortunate affair is well known to the readers of the Chronicle, and though the slurs, attacks and slanders and denunciations of that journal may, to those who did not suffer by them, seem an insufficient justification for Mr. Spreckels' conduct, it must be remembered that the course of the Chronicle towards the young man's father, his brothers, himself, and every interest which they owned, has been atrocious. For five years the Chronicle has missed no opportunity of charging Mr. Spreckels, his sons, the companies in which they are interested, and their friends, correspondents and employes in the islands, with slave owning, kidnapping and all sorts of cruelties and injustices. The Chronicle has in season and out of season fought the reciprocity treaty, disregarding its recognized advantages to the commerce of this coast, belittling our Hawaiian exports, falsifying the relative condition of this and eastern sugar markets, and done its best to break up one of the most important of our local industries and successful manufactures. And all this has been done, it is believed, at the behest of Atlantic sugar refiners, trade rivals of the California Sugar refinery, and for money received, and the promise of further rewards contingent on success. For five years every thief, drunken person, defaulting clerk and incorrigible vagabond that has fled the islands has found the Chronicle office, and in it friends with ready ears and pointed pens to listen to his story and write it out, garnishing it with fulminations more stinging, if possible, than the bare relation of the facts, false as they were, would justify, and then send it out, broadcast over the city, the nation and the world, with the object of burying the Spreckels family in contempt and hatred, and destroying the prosperity of the islands, with which they are so intimately connected.

Neither Mr. Spreckels nor his sons could appear and take part in a convention, even though they act with the party which the Chronicle professes to champion, but their motives were assailed and their suggestions ridiculed. These young gentlemen could not even sail their yacht for a cup, or take part in a regatta on the bay, but the rancorous hatred of the Chronicle proprietor towards the family cropped out in the sporting reporter's notes. Even their respected mother, one of the quietest and most domestic ladies in California, was on one occasion made the subject of a sneer. No one of these acts might singly be any palliation for what Mr. Spreckels has done, but what man, confident in his own integrity, in the justness and generosity of his dealings with all men, can be severely blamed if these wicked accusations and damnable reiterations at length have so wounded his honest pride as to warp his judgment and lead him to thoughts of revenge. And who can severely blame the son, who risks his own life in defense of a father whom he loves and venerates, when that father is charged with a heinous crime and threatened with prosecution and ignominious punishment for an infamous swindle of which he is not guilty. Adolph B. Spreckels did—wrong in a hasty mood, but from a noble motive. M. H. De Young has been deliberately following a course of wrong for years, and from the basest motives. Adolph B. Spreckels' libs against society and law may demand punishment, even from those who admire and respect him for his filial action. M. H. De Young cannot be reached by law, but has merited and receives the disapprobation and contempt of every honest man who knows the circumstances. With every other lover of order and law, we regret the act, condemn the outrage, but respect the actor.

COMPANY A.

How they will Observe the Day of Thanksgiving.

In the past it has always been customary for the members of Company A, First Battalion cavalry, to properly observe Thanksgiving day, and this practice will be continued to-day as heretofore. This company has a large active membership and in military circles is recognized as one of the oldest, best organized and most faithful militia companies in Colorado. Whether called for actual service or for parade they have always come to the front in good numbers, and this statement cannot be gainsaid. Bugle call at any time and in any emergency, we will venture to say, will rally a full representation.

To-day the members will participate in their usual Thanksgiving day target practice at the company's range west of the Monument. They are requested to assemble at the armory at nine o'clock and march thence to the shooting range. On this occasion a gold medal, two cups and a leather medal will be offered as prizes.

In the evening through a contract with Messrs. Howbert & Whalte they have secured the skating rink and an interesting programme will be presented. To begin with there will be a sabre and carbine drill for appropriate prizes to be awarded by a committee appointed for that purpose.

Afterwards the usual skating sessions will be given, also excellent music. Abundance of seats will be provided for spectators and we feel confident that all who attend can anticipate a good time.

District Court.

Upon the assembling of court yesterday morning the case of The People vs. Officer James McCabe was called for trial. After some little delay the following jury was selected for the trial of the case: Charles McCreery, S. W. McCutcheon, W. H. Parry, Albert Matthews, J. R. Millard, J. F. Cummings, B. C. Hull, Ed. Metz, A. Capehart, F. W. Hemenway, J. C. Goodell and James Murphy.

McCabe was brought before the court under an indictment charging him with assault with intent to kill one William Gaines, colored, on the morning of the 31st of January last while attempting to arrest Gaines. William Gaines the prosecuting witness was first placed upon the stand and told his story and was followed by Lou Bates an eye witness and Dr. Tucker who had been called upon to dress the wound caused by the bullet from McCabe's revolver. This constituted the direct evidence in behalf of the prosecution.

In the afternoon the defense opened, the defendant being represented by Judge Williams. James McCabe was first called to the witness stand. He told a plain straightforward story of the occurrence and gave the jury to understand that he had shot only in self defense. He was followed upon the stand by Peter Tennis and Sam Kerfoot, two eye witnesses of the shooting, Wm. Robinson and Ed Meshler who were with the party that drove into the barn but did not see the difficulty, and by J. W. Lynch, L. L. Rumpf, Nelson Johnson, L. C. Dana and John Beall, who testified to McCabe's good reputation for sobriety not only as a private citizen but as an officer.

Court took a recess until 7.30 o'clock and then adjourned until 10 o'clock Friday morning, without concluding the trial.

Something New In the Law.

Harper's Magazine.

Senator Vance claims that the people of North Carolina are the most law-abiding people in the world, and to prove it tells of a newly appointed justice of the peace who on a public occasion, when a fight was about to commence, commanded the peace, and preserved it by rushing between two combatants, drawing a knife a foot in length and threatening instant death to the man that should violate the public peace.

I know (writes a correspondent) of an incident which illustrates admirably the love of justice which animates our excellent body of magistrates, as well as their ingenuity in threading the mazes of the law, and arriving at its true meaning and intent.

A newly appointed J. P. in one of our eastern counties was trying a civil case of much difficulty, in which the law appeared to be involved in considerable doubt. On one side was Lawyer B——, contending that the law was dead in favor of his client; on the other was Lawyer H——, who was equally as positive that the law was clearly on the other side. The court was in great doubt for a time, but a lucky idea occurred to its mind. "Gentlemen," said the court, "the facts in this case are well ascertained, but the law seems to be doubtful. The attorneys on each side have stated what the law is, but they do not agree. The court decides that as the facts are established by the oaths of witnesses, the law must be established in like manner. The court requires each attorney to swear that the law is what he has asserted it to be."

One of the attorneys took the required oath without hesitation. The other demurred, and lost his case.

Our new J. P. declares that he has discovered a plan of getting at the truth of the law never thought of by Coke or Blackstone.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF COLORADO,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

In conformity with a long established custom, and in accordance with the recommendation of the president of the United States, I, James B. Grant, governor of the state of Colorado, do hereby designate Thursday, November twenty seventh, as a day of public thanksgiving, and prayer; and I earnestly recommend that the people of this state on that day, refrain from their usual avocations, so far as may be, and assemble in their accustomed places of worship and offer thanks to Almighty God for the manifested blessings we have enjoyed during the past year; and in so doing let us also extend the kindly offices of sympathy to those in affliction, and with deeds of charity remember the deserving poor.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the state of Colorado to be affixed.

Done at the city of Denver, this 14th day of November, A. D., 1884. JAMES B. GRANT.

By the Governor:
MELVIN EDWARDS,
Secretary of State

Remember the poor to-day.

Union services will be held to day at the Presbyterian church, where Mr. Gregg will preach. Services will also be held in the Grace Episcopal church where Mr. Kieffer will preach. Go provided for the collection.

The proposed action of the house of lords on the franchise bill has created a revolution. Persistence in the action of last summer would have resulted in the abolition of the house of lords. But the crisis is only put off not averted. Already ripe historical students like Mycers and Freeman are trying to devise a plan for a second chamber to be in the place of the house of lords. But the movement has no popular sympathy. John Morley struck the popular key when he said the house of lords should be abolished and that England should be ruled by the house of commons alone. The great meeting in London attended by 120,000 people passed resolutions declaring that the house of lords is "useless, dangerous, and ought to be abolished." From present appearances this is bound to be the result.

The attempt to make the action of the Tribune-Republican in fighting the criminals in Denver appear partisan is an attack on a righteous crusade. The motive that the Tribune-Republican may have has nothing to do with the question. The simple fact was that Denver was at the mercy of the criminal classes. Thieves and confidence men with impunity practiced their profession openly in the streets in the faces of the law officers. Notorious dens of infamy were not interfered with by the police, though open in defiance of the city laws and decent morals. It was time for action. The Tribune-Republican began the crusade and stirred up the city. It was bravely outspoken against crime and criminals. It frightened evil doers and spurred the city authorities to action. Under these circumstances the only thing for a good citizen to do was to give all the moral support possible to the Tribune-Republican. To carp and question motives is simply to act in the interest of the criminals. The only thing to be considered is the crusade necessary. If it is every positive influence aiding in the crusade is to be encouraged. If, however, we were to go back to motives we should say that the tone of the Tribune-Republican articles is distinctively and remarkably nonpartisan. The election of the sheriff by the Ed. Chase gang and the intimacy between the police and the same gang suggests a good many reasons why both the sheriff and chief of police have let the lawless run the town. The alliance of the law officers and the criminal classes for political purposes has been plain for a year. The fact that the Tribune-Republican has not emphasized this shows that it is taking the highest position in conducting this crusade.

Reports from the south show that the uneducated negroes are being frightened by reports industriously circulated that when Cleveland is inaugurated the negroes will be put back into slavery. A fair sample of the effect these reports are having is given in the following quotation from the Savannah News:

A Savannah lady met an old colored woman whom she had known since she was a child, in market on Saturday. The old woman was downcast in spirit and almost in tears. "Well, Missus," she said, "'se got to go back into slavery again, they tell me." "Oh, no, aunty; there's no danger of that. Why, your old master is dead long ago." "I know dat, but they tell me that it is a fact, an' it must be so." and the old woman walked slowly away and refused to be comforted.

At the Pulaski house the waiters and colored help were alarmed considerably, until they were told better, and for a day or two almost a panic prevailed amongst them. At the Screven house there have been some rather amusing occurrences. One of the colored laundresses came from New York recently. A day or two ago she went to the wife of the proprietor in tears. She said she had heard that all the colored people were to be made slaves again, and that her husband had already bought three women. She said she liked the place, and didn't want to be put out, and pleaded to be bought too. A colored man who acts as gardeman at the same hotel, said he had heard that they were all to go into slavery at once. He wanted the proprietor to buy him, and would like him to get him cheap. "Deed, boss," he declared, "I'd sooner have you git me fur $50, than any one else to git me for a thousand."

Of course no intelligent man north or south, white or black, believes this. Yet this is told to the poor negroes by unscrupulous leaders. It is inspired by partisan incendiary speeches like that delivered by Blaine after the election. Such talk is unpatriotic and shows a distrust of the American people that is unpardonable. There are certain things that no party is strong enough to change. The country has not gone back thirty years even if a party is put in power that lives in the past. The people are as strong, progressive and clear-minded as in war times. They will tolerate no backward steps in republican government. Equality of political rights is as much a part of our institutions as the doctrine of an indissoluble union of the states. It is therefore almost a crime for any speaker to create false alarms about slavery or any other question settled by the war for party effect.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes' latest honor is a complimentary membership in the American Academy of Medicine.

Adolphe Regnier, the philologist, whose death at the age of 80 years has been announced, was the tutor of the Comte de Paris.

Dr William Perry, of Exeter, N. H., over 90 years of age, and the oldest graduate of Harvard college, was the first to cast the presidential vote in that town.

Dr. C Johnson lately told the British Medical association of a patient of his, 55 years old, who had lived upon milk diet for five years. He took a gallon of milk a day, but not a particle of any other food This treatment cured him of Bright's disease.

General B. F. Butler is reported to be applying himself with unusual earnestness to the pursuit of his profession. The number of cases he undertakes for poor persons, without charge, is steadily increasing.

Ebenezer Francis, of Cambridge, 91 years old, who has been announced as voting for Blaine, cast his first ballot in 1813 and has voted at every presidential election since. He was for twenty-two years superintendent of buildings of Harvard college

Dr William Wells Brown, a famous abolitionist, like William Lloyd Garrison in spirit, though unlike him in color, died at Chelsea, Mass., a few days ago. Dr. Brown was born a slave, in Kentucky, in 1816, and at the age of 20 came fled to Lake Erie. Many a fugitive was smuggled by him to Canadian shores, his best record being sixty-five in one year Meanwhile he has educated himself, and later moved to the front in the great political agitation.

Sir Moses Montefiore's family connection with the Rothschilds is after this wise: In 1812 he was married to Judith Cohen, daughter of Levi Barent Cohen, and sister in law of Nathan Mayer Rothschild. Later his brother, Abraham Montefiore, wedded Henrietta, sister of Nathan Mayer Rothschild, and in 1810, Louisa, daughter of Abraham and Henrietta, became the wife of Anthony, Rothschild's second son.

Blaine's Future.

From the New York Sun.

It is altogether too early to retire Mr. Blaine. His ability, his experience, his audacity, and the attachment of his political following remain. He is not the sort of statesman to crawl quietly onto the shelf because on a certain Tuesday half a dozen hundred votes in New York were democratic instead of republican. He stands at the head of a united party, more compact and in better shape for opposition than it was for administration, and clear of that part of its membership which was personally hostile to himself. Mr. Blaine's republican enemies they have taken themselves off into the other camp. That is the way, we suppose, in which Mr. Blaine and his friends look at the matter. The natural place for Mr. Blaine during the next four years is in congress. Unfortunately for the party, which in the sharp and interesting contests of the near future will need his services more than ever before, neither of the Maine seats in the senate will soon be vacant. Mr. Eugene Hale's term lasts more than two years longer; Mr. Frye's until March 4, 1889.

Perhaps, however, the two senators from Maine will be able to agree between themselves which of them shall resign in order to make room for Mr. Blaine. Or, still better, he may return to the house of representatives. There he would be a power of no doubtful magnitude.

Principles and Offices.

From the New York World.

We feel confident that the independents would not allow themselves to be paid off in offices. It would destroy the noble unselfishness of their action. It would make people suspect that they used their principles only as a stepping stone to patronage.

Their Object Gained.

From the Savannah News (dem).

The independents have already received their reward. Their purpose was not to elevate the democratic party to power because they approve its principles, but to defeat Blaine. They have accomplished their object and they ought to rest content.

Coffee, Oriental Style.

New York Post.

Now, coffee properly made is an important brain stimulant, and used at proper times and in reasonable quantity is a valuable aid to digestion. It is not, in the least, to be replaced by chicory or any of the ingenious imitations—date-coffee, etc., which have no other value than that of hot drinks containing sugar and milk, while the real coffeeberry, treated as it is in most American families, roasted to carbonization, and boiled to vaporization of what may remain of the aroma, is simply a bitter deceit.

The Orientals, who use coffee to a greater extent than we, are careful in their selection and preparation of it. The varieties preferred are Mocha and Martinique mixed, and the roasting is performed every day; the pulverization when wanted. This is done in a mortar; the berry roasted to a light brown to the point at which, with a strong pressure between the thumb and forefinger, it will break crisply without any tendency to pulverize, is pounded to an impalpable powder, placed in a little copper vessel called an ibrik, and boiling water poured on it. The ibrik then being replaced for a moment on the fire to restore the heat taken up by the metal, the fluid is poured into the cup and drunk, grounds and all. If thoroughly prepared, the coffee should be in a condition rather resembling chocolate than the beverage we prepare; but even so, it is doubtful if the method known as the Turkish is as good as the French manner of an infusion.

To prepare this properly the same care must be employed not to over-roast the coffee. Some people do that systematically, supposing that the bitterness added to the infusion (or decoction, as it is generally) is more coffee, while it is really only more soot, the caffeine being decomposed and the finer elements vaporized by the excessive heat, as may be perceived in the aroma of coffee diffused through the house, while it ought to remain in the berry till wanted. The great secret of good coffee is in this roasting point, which must be marked by perfect equality of color and the moderate brown which simply indicates crispness. If too little roasted, it clogs the mill; if too much, it goes to powder and will not settle clear.

When properly roasted, a heaping tablespoonful for each cup to be made should be placed in a biggin provided with a filter, and the requisite quantity of water, freshly boiled, poured on it and allowed to filter through. The fineness of the powder will be indicated by the time occupied in filtering, and the biggin should be kept where the temperature of the infusion will be maintained at near the boiling point. It may be poured back to filter the second time. If it runs through rapidly, it will be tasteless and require several times passing through. If too slowly, the coffee cools before it is made. This point a little experience will determine.

Under no circumstances should the coffee be allowed to boil even for a minute. This, while it seems economy, is utter waste, as the essential portions of the coffee are thus driven off in vapor.

Activity of the Nihilists.

From the London Times.

After a year's silence, the organ published clandestinely in Russia by the nihilist party has reappeared. This forms the tenth issue of the Narodnaia Volia, and the present number consists of twenty-seven pages, large quarto, more or less well printed. The material it contains is in some instances altogether antedated. A leading article bears the date of January last, and another is signed in the month of March; but the last few pages give quite recent information, notably about the last trial of nihilists, and the paper in a whole is dated October 12. These irregularities are explained by the executive committee of the revolutionary party. There is no attempt to deny that the party had suffered great losses. Type and printing machines had fallen into the hands of the police, and some of the chief men were imprisoned. These disasters were due more especially to the denunciations of Degaieff, the assassin of Col. Soudatkin. Now, however, the losses have been repaired, and the party, for a time shaken to its very foundations is thoroughly reorganized. Its organ, the Will of the People, reappears, and the executive committee is strong enough to confess its momentary weakness and explain the cause. In an official circular the executive committee relates that Degaieff had formerly acquired a somewhat elevated position in the ranks of the party. When arrested he, however, lost heart and turned informer, "thus ultimately becoming Col. Soudatkin's principal police agent. Degaieff revealed nearly all that he knew, but in time found that the government was not sufficiently grateful to him. He was also, perhaps, actuated by a sentiment of remorse. In any case, he returned to the revolutionists and placed his life in their hands. Tried by the executive committee, they spared his life on condition that he should never again join in any political movement of whatever description, and that he should kill Col. Soudatkin with his own hands. This order having been faithfully executed, the committee issued on March 9 a proclamation condemning to death any who should denounce Degaieff, and explaining that his life belonged exclusively to the executive committee, and no one else should be allowed to touch him. With Soudatkin killed and Degaieff rendered harmless, the committee was able to reconstitute the party, and, after overcoming immense difficulties, is once more, according to its own statement, in a favorable position.

In another article the Narodnaia Volia gives a summary of the principal events that have occurred in Russia during the last 12 months. This chronicle comprises some interesting details concerning the great development of agrarian crime at Ufa and in the south of Russia. These facts have for the most part been concealed by the government, and the press has not dared to allude to them. Then we have a proclamation of a revolutionary group which wished to separate itself from the party of the "Will of the People," but which has now returned to the parent organization. A further proof of strength is given in the act of federation between "the proletariat," the socialist, and revolutionary party of Poland, and the Russian nihilists, or "Will of the People" party. According to this agreement the Poles, while retaining a large measure of local autonomy, accept the direction of the Russian executive committee in matters relating to general politics.

Among the other subjects treated, we find an obituary notice of Neoustratieff, professor of the gymnasium, who was shot at Irkutsk for striking the governor general of the province, Arcutchine. This notice contains a letter written by Neoustratieff to his friends a few hours before his execution, which offers considerable interest from a psychological point of view. The last pages of the paper are filled with a long list of arrests made and a paragraph mentions incidentally that M. P. Lavroff does not and never did belong to the executive committee, though assertions to the contrary have been made by a number of foreign and English papers. On the other hand, M. Lavroff is recognized as one of the editors of the Review published by the nihilists at Geneva as their foreign organ, and his amicable relations with the party are warmly acknowledged.

Strange Wagers.

From the New York Graphic.

The London swells are the most inveterate betters in the world. Time hangs so heavy on their hands that in the excitement of uncertainty they find a grateful relief. A curious bet was made in one of the London clubs some years ago that will perhaps point a moral. It was that a certain member could not within two hours on London bridge sell 100 new guineas at a penny apiece. The man took his place on the bridge with a little tray on which he had the coins. He informed the passers-by that they were genuine gold coins from the Bank of England and that they were to be had for a penny each. The cartmen and policemen laughed at him. When the time expired, such is human incredulity that he had sold but two, which a maid servant bought to amuse her little charges. Another peculiar bet made in London was by a well known barrister for a large amount that he could, at a certain hour, block Fleet street in the busiest part of the day and at its narrowest point. Half an hour before the time appointed he took his stand on the opposite side of the street from an insurance office which had a large lion over the door. He was dressed like a necromancer with a long cloak and wearing a tall pointed hat and large glasses over his eyes. Under one arm he carried an enormous book and in the other held a large telescope which he every few minutes pointed at the lion after inspecting the book. People gathered around, and he told them that in the book of Balderdash it was written that in half an hour that lion would wax his tail. Slowly walking up and down, and every few minutes taking a look at the lion through his glass, he attracted the attention of everybody, and the awaiting crowd grew every moment denser. Then wagons stopped to see what the trouble all was, and these jammed others until the whole street was crowded and impassable. The barrister slipped away in the crowd, but a most obstinate jam ensued, and it was more than an hour before the police could clear the thoroughfare.

ST. NICHOLAS

FOR

ATTRACTIONS FOR 1884-5

No printed periodical can take the place of parent, pastor or school teacher; but a good magazine can supplement their work and influence to a wonderful degree. In view of this, it is not extravagant to say—instead of "Can we afford to take St. NICHOLAS?"—the question of every earnest household in English-speaking countries to-day should be "Can we afford not to take St. NICHOLAS?"

The magazine, during its eleven happy years of existence, under the editorial charge of

has grown familiar to hundreds of thousands of young readers; and their interest and intelligent enjoyment have constantly inspired the editor and publishers to fresh effort. To-day its strength is in its wholesome growth; its sympathy with young life, its hearty recognition of the movement of events, and its steadily increasing literary and pictorial resources. The following are some of the good things already secured for future numbers of ST. NICHOLAS:

"His One Fault," a serial story for boys, by the popular author, J. T. Trowbridge.

"Personally Conducted," illustrated papers on famous places in Europe. By Frank R. Stockton.

"Historic Girls," a companion series to "Historic Boys." By E. S. Brooks.

"Ready for Business;" suggestions to boys about to choose an occupation—based on personal interviews with prominent representatives of various trades and professions. By C. J. Manson.

"Driven Back to Eden," a serial. By Prof. R. F. Boe.

"Talks for Young Folks," a series of popular papers, by H. H. (Helen Jackson).

"Among the Law-makers;" recollections of a boy page in the United States senate—containing much political information, both instructive and amusing. By Edmund Alton.

"Davy and the Goblin," a very funny serial story by a new writer, Charles Carryl.

Short stories by Louisa M. Alcott.

"The Progress of Invention;" "From Paleolith to Parlor car," "From Cross bow to 100-ton Gun," etc. Descriptive papers, by Charles E. Bolton.

"Art Work for Young Folks," papers on decorative handicraft, by Charles G. Leland.

"Sheep or Silver?" a story of Texan life. By the late Rev. Wm. M. Baker.

"A Garden of Girls," being six short stories for girls by six leading writers.

"Tales of Two Continents," stories of adventure, by A. R. Boyesen.

"Cartoons for Boys and Girls," funny pictures by St. Nicholas artists.

"From Bach to Wagner;" brief, pointed biographies of great musicians, by Agatha Tunis.

Special papers by chosen writers, including Mary Hallock Foote, Joaquin Miller, Alice Wellington Rollins, C. B. Bartlett, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Rev. Washington Gladden, Julia Schayer, Anna Lea Merritt, W. O. Stoddard, D. Ker, Ernest Ingersoll, Clara E. Clement, Lieut. Schwatka.

The illustrations will be the work of the very best artists and engravers—and there will be plenty of them. In the November and December numbers are beautiful colored frontispieces.

It costs only 35 cents and all book and news dealers sell it. The subscription price is $3.00 a year, and now is just the time to subscribe.

A free specimen copy of ST. NICHOLAS will be sent on request. Mention this paper.

A Thanksgiving ball will be given in Masonic hall to-night.

It is expected that the Sylvester rape case will come to trial in the district court on Friday.

Rev. A. P. Tinker and bride came down from Denver on the Thunderbolt yesterday noon.

The second annual session of the Colorado Bar association will be held in Denver on December 3d.

All of the banks and many of the stores will be closed to-day and Sunday hours will be observed at the postoffice.

At the Thanksgiving services at the Presbyterian church to-day a collection will be taken for the benefit of the poor of this city.

There will be a Thanksgiving service held in Grace church at 11 a. m. to-day. Sermon will be preached by the rector, Rev. A. R. Kieffer.

Tickets for the Nashville Jubilee singers are on sale at Thayer & Howbert's. They will appear at the M. E. church on Friday and Saturday evenings.

County Treasurer A. A. McCourney was busy yesterday sending out notices to the tax payers of the county to the effect their taxes are now due and payable.

Mr. George Clark will furnish the targets for a turkey shooting across the Monument to begin this morning at 10 o'clock. All expert marksmen are invited to participate.

The exceedingly high winds that have prevailed during the past two or three days are exceptional at this season of the year, although they may be expected in March and April.

Sergeant Hall, of the Signal service, and Mr. A. M. Cunningham, the photographer, started for Pike's Peak yesterday to remain over Thanksgiving. While absent Mr. Cunningham will take some new negatives.

To-day having been proclaimed a legal holiday and a day on which thanks should be returned by both President Arthur and Governor Grant, the GAZETTE force will accordingly observe with the rest; consequently no paper will be published on Friday morning.

Professor Pettibone and wife gave such universal satisfaction at the rink on Tuesday night that through the earnest solicitation of many of its patrons they have been prevailed upon to return and give another exhibition on December 15th.

To-day being Thanksgiving day a union service will be held in the First Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock a. m. Rev. Mr. Gregg will deliver a discourse on "The Future of Colorado Springs and Our Obligations in View of It," the other ministers assisting. Let all our citizens turn out, and in so doing let us also extend the kindly offices of sympathy to those in affliction and with deeds of charity remember the deserving poor of our city.

The ladies of Grace Episcopal church will open a sale of useful and fancy articles, commencing Friday, December 5th, 1884, at 2 p. m. Persons wishing to purchase Christmas presents to send east can be supplied. Further notice will be given as to the place of holding the sale.

A Thanksgiving dinner will be served at the A. M. E. church to-day at one o'clock. The bill of fare will include turkey, chicken and all the delicacies of the season. Only 35 cents will be charged. In the evening there will be a festival at which fine refreshments will be served and a good social is in time generally had.

None of the prisoners who were sentenced by Judge Harrison have yet been transferred from the county jail to their new quarters in the penitentiary, and probably will not be until the entire criminal docket in this district court has been disposed of. We understand that Taylor will withdraw his application for a new trial and submit to the sentence to be passed upon him by Judge Harrison under the verdict given by the jury.

Beginning with to-morrow night the Nashville jubilee singers will open an engagement in this city at the First M. E. church. Entertainments will be given on Friday and Saturday evenings, and also a matinee on Saturday afternoon. Of the organization the New Orleans Picayune says: "The first appearance here of the Nashville students last evening was greeted with a crowded house. This troupe makes no particular claim or pretension to render operatic or difficult music, and their voices evince no special training, but for real out and out negro plantation song and camp meeting melodies they are really immense and it can in truth be said they are at home. The entertainment was pleasant, amusing and interesting, and very much enjoyed by all."

THE CENTURY!
IN 1885.
A GREAT ENTERPRISE.

PAPERS ON THE CIVIL WAR.

The important feature of the CENTURY MAGAZINE for the coming year—indeed, perhaps the most important ever undertaken by the magazine—will be a series of separate papers on the great battles of the war for the Union, written by general officers high in command upon both the federal and the confederate sides. General Grant (who writes of Vicksburg, Shiloh, and other battles) Generals Longstreet, McClellan, Beauregard, Rosecrans, Hill, Admiral Porter and others. The series opens in the November CENTURY with a graphically illustrated article on written by the confederate general, G. T. Beauregard. Brief sketches, entitled "Recollections of a Private," papers chronicling special events, descriptions of various auxiliary branches of the service, etc., will supplement the more important series by the various generals.

A strict regard for accuracy will guide the preparations of the illustrations, for which the CENTURY has at its disposal a very large quantity of photographs, drawings, portraits, maps, plans, etc., hitherto unused. The aim is to present in this series, not official reports, but commanding officers' accounts of their plans and operations interesting personal experiences which will record leading events of the war and possess, at the same time, a historical value not easily to be calculated.

FICTION.

In this line the CENTURY will maintain its prestige and furnish the best stories by American writers that can be secured. In November begins author of "Venetian Days," "A Modern Instance," etc. This story deals with the rise of an American business man. A novel by Henry James, a novelette by Grace Denio Litchfield, and short stories by "Uncle Remus," Frank R. Stockton, H. H. Boyesen, T. A. Janvier, H. H. Julian Hawthorne, and other equally well known writers will appear at various times.

A NEW NOVEL BY W. D. HOWELLS,

MISCELLANEOUS FEATURES.

Under this heading may be included a series of papers on the cities of Italy by W. D. Howells, the illustrations being reproductions of etchings and drawings by Joseph Pennell; a series on being an interesting group of papers by W. F. Stanley, Lieut.-Gen. Schwatka, Principal Grant, of Kingston, Ontario, and others, descriptive of little-known regions; papers on French and American art, sculpture and painting, with some exquisite illustrations; papers on the first being by Professor Langley and others. Under architecture are included more of Mrs. Van Rensselaer's articles on churches, city and country houses, etc. Colonel George E. Waring, Jr., will describe

THE NEW NORTHWEST,

ASTRONOMY, ARCHITECTURE AND HISTORY,

PROGRESS IN SANITARY DRAINING;

E. C. Stedman, Edmund Gosse, and others will furnish literary essays; George W. Cable will contribute in various ways; several papers on sport and adventure will soon be published, and will write from time to time on outdoor subjects.

Readers of the CENTURY may feel sure of keeping abreast of the times on leading subjects that may properly come within the province of a monthly magazine. Its circulation is now about 140,000 monthly, the November number exceeding that figure. Subscriptions should date from this number, beginning the war series and Mr. Howells' novel. Price $4.00 a year, 35 cents a number. All booksellers and newsdealers sell it and take subscriptions, or remittance may be made to the publishers.

A free specimen copy of the CENTURY will be sent on request. Mention this paper.
